Dear [Redacted]

During January I plan a field trip to Washington with the students of my foreign policy class. Our purpose will be to learn something first hand about the agencies which deal with, relate to, or affect our foreign relations. One of the agencies in which we are interested in the C.I.A. and your have been suggested to me as someone who might be able to arrange a briefing for us.

[Redacted]

I'm sure he will be glad to identify me for you and tell you something about Carroll College and about the field trip experience I am planning for my students.

We will arrive in Washington on January 9 and be there until the 19th. If, during that time, you could arrange a briefing for us on recent developments and trends in U.S. foreign policy, particularly as it relates to economic relationships, we would be most appreciative.

My class will have 15 students, all upper division majors in political science, history, or international Relations. When appropriate, I will send a roster of their names and other information. As to possible dates, we have thus far an open calendar except for Tuesday morning, January 14, and Wednesday afternoon, January 15. Any time that suits your convenience within that general time frame will be fine with us.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,
